Kaleta Coffee Table Rosso Alicante Marble

Two oak columns, back to back, holding up a slab of marble. That clustered column base gives the Kaleta coffee table a sculptural, design-forward silhouette that shifts as you move around it, topped with a Rosso Alicante marble surface and a thick bullnose edge that echoes the rounded base. Each marble top carries its own veining, so no two tables look quite alike. Stone and wood, considered down to the curve.

- Sculptural Column Base: Two oak columns set back to back form a clustered, sculptural base that gives the coffee table a design-forward look from every angle.
- Marble Top: A Rosso Alicante marble surface tops the table with natural veining unique to each piece, pairing cool stone with the warmth of an oak base.
- Thick Bullnose Edge: A generous top with a thick, rounded bullnose edge softens every corner, echoing the curved column base for a cohesive, considered profile.
- One Of A Kind: Because the top is natural marble, veining and tone vary table to table, so each Kaleta carries its own character no other piece repeats.
