

Rothko Outdoor Stool Black

Part sculpture, part seat — the Rothko stool refuses to pick just one. A low, oval profile rises from a sculptural base, giving the piece a monolithic, gallery-ready presence indoors or out. Made from a concrete and fiber mix and blacked out edge to edge, it stays light enough to move yet sturdy enough to trust. Water-resistant by nature, it slides from garden arrangement to sofa-side end table. Pull it up for one more seat, or let it stand alone.

- Sculptural Base: A low-profile oval seat rises from a sculptural base, giving the Rothko a monolithic, art-forward presence wherever it lands indoors or out.
- Concrete And Fiber: A concrete and fiber mix keeps the stool light yet sturdy, with a blacked-out surface that reads as one continuous, sculpted form.
- Made For Outdoors: Water-resistant by nature, the surface handles patio life and the odd spill, ready to move inside or out as the day calls for.
- Stool Or Side Table: Low and steady, it works as occasional seating or an end table beside the sofa, doubling its job in any room.
